FEATURES/EPISODIC DIRECTOR

THIRTEEN Features.
Twenty series. Over
Ninety episodes for Television. Born in Calgary, Canada.
US/Canada Dual Citizen.
60 Awards/9
nominations.

He is mainly known for his work on Gene Roddenberry's Andromeda, MGM's Stargate: Atlantis, ABC's Dinotopia and the HBO thriller Exception to The Rule, starring Kim Cattrall, Sean Young and Eric McCormack. This proven and prolific director of Thirteen feature films and many television series in virtually all genres, with over 90 screen credits -- was a dreamer kid from the Canadian prairies, making films at the age of ten with a Super 8 camera in hometown Calgary, Canada. At age 18, he got a grant to make his first sixteen millimeter drama Sequence, and expanded the plotline into his first feature film Storm, produced on a shoestring in the summer of 1983 and filmed in the forests and hills of Alberta. At 27, he landed directing gigs on the Canadian-produced Friday the 13th: The Series for Paramount Pictures; for this television debut he received three Canadian Emmy Award nominations. His second feature followed in 1992 with Killer Image, a plot-twisting photographic mystery-thriller starring Michael Ironside and veteran character actor M. Emmet Walsh. Throughout the 1990's and this decade he directed more movies and episodes of over twenty series from kid's shows to westerns to science-fiction. M. Night Shyamalan has cited Winning's episode of Nickelodeon's Are You Afraid of the Dark: The Tale of the Dream Girl, as the inspiration for The Sixth Sense. His episodic work has received international awards including seventeen first places at the Houston Film Festival, a Gold Hugo and two Silver Hugos in Chicago, and Four national Gemini nominations for Best Director/Dramatic Series. In 2002 he received a National award from the Director's Guild for outstanding achievement in television drama. He directs in many countries: Scotland, Hungary, Canada and is soon to be working in India and Thailand. He has directed many international stars including: Daniel Baldwin, Patrick Duffy, Peter Strauss, William Devane, Peta Wilson, Markie Post, Lance Henriksen, Frederic Forrest, Jason Connery, Carl Weathers, Margot Kidder, Michael Sarrazin, Bruce Boxleitner, Lesley Ann Warren, Martin Mull and many more. Most recently, in less than one year -- Winning directed Kevin Sorbo, Robert Englund and Bruce Dern in a Trilogy of monster movies for the US SciFi Channel and Hallmark Entertainment - RHI Films New York -- as well as episodes of the new Vampire series Blood Ties for Lifetime TV.
